In our rapidly changing world self-development and renewal are becoming increasingly important attributes. Versatility and adaptability are vitally important assets. The ability to renew oneself continually, to retain a high degree of motivation, and to sustain enthusiasm for the task to be accomplished—these are the essentials of our times.

For the self-renewing individual, the process of self-discovery and self-development never end. The excitement of education and learning becomes a life-long achievement, worthy of one's best efforts.
